

First Week of Instruction for Fall 2016

Students enjoying their first week on the college campus

The first day of instruction for the fall semester of Palau Community College (PCC) was on Monday, August 15, 2016. Instructors distributed syllabuses that outlined the lessons that will be taught in the new term. They also shared with the students information about the expected learning outcomes as well as the necessary workload that will guarantee a passing grade for each course.

This week also marked the add-and-drop period. Students who are unable to meet the course requirements or cannot maintain attendance for personal reasons may drop classes. They may also replace their classes or modify their class schedules to fit their personal preferences.

The college would like to remind all students that open communication is an important part of their learning experience. Please discuss any issue related to your classes, schedules, or degree programs with the Academic Advisors/Counselors at the PCC Student Life Office. The counselors are more than willing to provide the necessary assistance to help you cope with personal and academic struggles. FIRST WEEK, CONTINUED ON PAGE 4

Presidential Debate Held at PCC

On Wednesday, August 17, 2016 a debate among the presidential candidates running in the this year's national elections was held at Palau Community College (PCC) Cafeteria. The debate was an opportunity for the candidates to share their plans as we as address issues that are important to the citizens of Palau. A total of eight (8) debate questions were asked including four (4) from students of the college. The questions covered a range of topics concerning the community such as overcrowding in Koror, the quality of health care services being provided by the Belau National Hospital, changes that must be made in order to improve Palau's quality of education, and plans that the government must adapt to improve the lives of the people of Palau. $\ensuremath{\textbf{PCAA}}$ continued from page 2

In a memorandum that was signed by both institutions on May 2016, the summer academy will provide participants with training that focuses on proper teaching methods for children in the elementary & pre-school education levels. The participants learned how to maintain a learning environment that meets the needs of all children. Earlier this summer, representatives from PCAA had met with PCC Accreditation Liaison Officer (ALO) Deikola Olikong, PCC Dean of Academic Affairs Robert Ramarui, and PCC Associate Dean of Academic Affairs Marianne Temaungil to further discuss the implementation of the summer program.

The summer academy had a total of ten (10) participants: Maurine Teblak (Palau Head Start), Rosary Lieb (Palau Head Start), Lucien Olikong (Palau Head Start), Arlene Trolii (MOE Special Education Program), Virginia Emeterio (Palau Head Start), Heidi Beltau (PCC Day Care Center), Joanie Smau (Palau Head Start), Glenda Gabino (Palau Head Start), Geraldine Renguul (Palau Head Start), and Jawea Ucharm (Palau Head Start).

TracDat® is a web-based assessment system with a flexible framework that helps learning institutions organize, align, document, report, and take effective actions for improvement. It supports data-informed strategic planning, program review, accreditation, and managing academic and administrative outcomes.

ALO Olikong also discussed the recommendations stated in the letter from the Accrediting Commission for Community and Junior Colleges, Western Association of Schools and Colleges (ACCJC-WASC) President Dr. Barbara A. Beno. The college must meet the recommendations in order to maintain its accreditation status.

PCC President Dr. Patrick U. Tellei met with the faculty members on the first day of the workshop. He shared with the instructors information regarding the changes being made this semester, such as the cancellation of developmental courses. PCC President Dr. Tellei also discussed events that the college was currently accommodating, specifically the 2016 Pacific Partnership, and improvements made to the college campus.

You may contact your counselors at the PCC Student Life Office at (tel): 488-3036.

It is also important for the students to communicate with their instructors, especially when personal obligations conflict with their academic studies. Please inform your instructors if you are unable to attend classes or meet with your instructors on a later date to discuss your assignments if you had to miss class. Openly communicating with the faculty will improve your learning experience at the college. Please contact your instructors at the Academic Affairs Office at (tel): 488-2470/2471 ext. 240 or 245.

Student services, such as peer tutoring, are also available if you need further instruction with your studies. Learning resources and reading materials are available at the Tan Siu Lin PCC Library for your use. Feel free to ask any college staff for further assistance regarding your classes or studies. The college is dedicated to helping you achieve academic success and wishes all its students the best this new semester!
