PCC Faculty Participated in Online Course Development Training

Faculty during training at PCC Assembly Hall

From December 17-18, 2019 Palau Community College faculty attended a two-day online course development using Moodle course program.

Faculty Senate Association President and Associate Professor of IT Johvanna Yaoch lead the training with an assistance from Instructional Media Specialist Crystal Nacionales.

The purpose of the training is to familiarize and equip faculty with a know-how to create online program course using hybrid format. A hybrid course will meet 50 percent of the time in the classroom and 50 percent online. if the course meets face-to-face on Tuesday, it will not meet face-to-face on Thursday. Instead, a student will be required to complete online learning activities that will be equal to the second class meeting. The online course will have a separate section for assignments and will require a student to actively engage in learning. Faculty participated were Alins Nobuo, Renneta D. Meyar, Cason Tennyson, Julius Omila, Nobby Enano, Ala-Lofty Ongalibang, Rogelio Santos, Frutoso Tellei, Marvin Yarofaisug, O'hara Skebong, Suzette G. Hinojales, Fredrick Mascardo, Didi-ich X.
