Omlei Moriah Aderkeroi, a student majoring in Tourism and Hospitality Hotel Management and a full-time Library Assistant at the Tan Siu Lin Library at Palau Community College (PCC), recently showcased her skills and passion for the field at a local event. Selected by Tourism Instructor Yoko Morisaki, Omlei joined fellow classmates as part of the waitstaff for the 25th Anniversary Fundraising Gala Dinner benefiting the Palau International Coral Reef Center (PICRC). The event took place on January 15th, 2026, at the Ngarachamayong Cultural Center and drew approximately 500 guests.

Reflecting on her experience, Omlei candidly shared, "At first, I was a bit nervous about serving such a large crowd. However, after a thorough briefing that covered everything from serving water to appetizers, main courses, and desserts, I was able to calm my nerves and focus on the task at hand."

Once the gala commenced, Omlei quickly found her rhythm. "As soon as I started serving, it became much easier to navigate the bustling environment and meet the guests'

On January 19, 2026, the Palau Community College (PCC) New Science Building Theater served as the venue for the National Day of Prayer event, gathering local leaders and community members in a united front to pray for our nation. The event was attended by H.E. President Surangel S. Whipps, Jr., Vice President Oilouch, members of the Cabinet, the Olbiil Era Kelulau (OEK), the Council of Chiefs, and representatives from various religious organizations, as well as students and community.

During this significant occasion, President Whipps officially signed a Proclamation declaring 2026 as the year to "Just Say No to Illegal Drugs." The event underscored the collective responsibility of all individuals in the fight against drug abuse, emphasizing that this movement begins with personal choice, particularly among the youth. With the backing of families, schools, churches, and the broader community, the commitment to saying no to illegal drugs is seen as essential for protecting lives, nurturing cultural heritage, and ensuring a prosperous future for the Republic of Palau.

needs. Though it was hectic, I embraced the challenge wholeheartedly," she explained.

The evening offered more than just meal service; it also provided invaluable hands-on learning. "This experience taught us essential skills in waitstaff operations, particularly in time management and attentiveness during such a fast-paced event," she noted. To top it off, at the end of the night, waitstaff members received take-home meals, a generous gesture that added to the overall positive atmosphere. The gratitude expressed by event organizers and instructors reinforced the students' sense of accomplishment and appreciation for their hard work.

Omlei was not alone in this endeavor; she collaborated with fellow Tourism and Hospitality classmates, including Omisong Sikyang, Mobel Aderkeroi, Mary Jane Otei, Zack Blesam, Akeelah Joseph, and Jacob Ewatel. Together, they overcame the challenges of the evening and contributed to the event's success.

In closing, Omlei extended her heartfelt thanks to the organizing team of the Gala Dinner. "I want to express my gratitude to the PICRC Gala Dinner organizing team for partnering with Instructors Yoko Morisaki and Marvin Ngirutang. This opportunity allowed us, as Tourism and Hospitality students, to assist with food and beverage duties, and we truly valued the experience."

This event not only provided students with invaluable experience but also highlighted the significance of community involvement in the tourism and hospitality sector. Omlei Moriah Aderkeroi's journey serves as an inspiring example for her peers and anyone passionate about a career in hospitality.

Palau Community College Unveils Redesigned Website for Enhanced User Experience

EXPLORE THE ALL-NEW REDESIGNED WEBSITE AT PCC.PALAU.EDU

On January 6, 2026, Palau Community College (PCC) proudly launched its newly redesigned website, now featuring a modern interface that aims to enhance user experience and accessibility. This significant update marks the first major overhaul since 2013, when the college last revamped its online presence.

The initiative, led by Computer Services Director Johvanna Yaoch, has been in the works since the 2024-2025 academic year. Director Yaoch has dedicated countless hours to ensure a smooth transition and to bring this project to fruition.

With the launch of the new website, Director Yaoch is actively seeking feedback from college offices and staff to identify areas for further improvement. To support this effort, training sessions were conducted in October 2025 and again on January 21, 2026. These sessions equipped various college employees with the skills to update content, upload and remove files, and make the most of the website's features.

Looking ahead, there are plans to incorporate additional functionalities, including online payment services and donation options for the college's endowment fund. The primary goal remains to provide accessible information and convenience to students and the broader community about the college's offerings.

As PCC embraces this new digital chapter, ongoing collaboration and input will be essential to ensure the website meets the needs of everyone it serves.
